WHAT ARE YOU LOOKING FOR?

*Most gins have some of these following flavours - so see what you can smell or taste:
citrus, liquorice, cinnamon, aniseed, fruits and herbs.*

You should always be able to detect juniper which is characteristically dry, piney and peppery.

Is the juniper on the tongue or towards the back of the mouth? How strong is it?

NOW TASTE THE GIN

Swallow the gin & consider the following:

Is the aftertaste similar to the nose or different?

Is the aftertaste dominated by stronger flavours such as spice, earth or aniseed?

TONIC WILL REDUCE THE HEAT & ALCOHOLIC CONTENT

It should also make some of the other botanical flavours more detectable.

More than anything else, it's our spicing that's responsible for the distinctive character, smoothness and versatility of our rum.

PUSSER'S RUM GUNPOWDER PROOF

40% £5.50

A classic British Navy style rum, Pusser's Gunpowder Proof rum has rich notes of treacle, toffee, honey and vanilla throughout the palate, alongside oak, cinnamon and ginger. Taking its name from the naval tradition of providing sailors with a daily ration of rum, distributed by the Purser – or Pusser. The Pusser would dispel any complaints of watering down the rum by wetting a pinch of gunpowder with the rum and attempting to light it. If the mixture ignited it was "proof" that the rum was strong enough.

TASTING

RUM for BEGINNERS

Rum is one of the most versatile spirits; from a classic Cuba Libré to more complex cocktails as well as being served neat. Rum is a spirit with a rich history, from serving as a part of the Royal Navy's daily rations, to being used in some of the most famous bars in the world in their signature drinks. The world of rum is one full of flavour and variety!

WHITE RUM

A white rum is one that is filtered after distillation to produce a clear spirit with a very simple, often sweet taste. They are best used mixed in long drinks, such as a classic mojito or daquiri!

DARK RUM

A dark rum will have been distilled with dark molasses and has been either aged longer, or in charred barrels to impart a much richer and deeper flavour to the rum. These are perfect to sip over ice, or enjoy in a heavier cocktail, where their flavours won't be overpowered. A Dark 'n' Stormy is a perfect example of this!

SPICED RUM

Often golden in colour, these rums gain their flavour during the distillation or aging process. Typically caramel and ginger are used in the process along with a variety of other botanicals. These rums will have complex flavour profiles that often match any type of serve. They are perfect when used in a classic Cuba Libré and even in a daquiri to impart a richer flavour!

GOLDEN RUM

Golden rums are aged in barrels. This gives them their golden colour and adds a rich flavour to them depending on the duration and type of barrels used. These rums suit neat serving, or classic rum cocktails like a mojito or Cuba Libré!
